happy? A happy life is the ultimate goal, isn't it? Unfortunately, it's not always easy. Some say that happiness is subjective. Others say it's dependent on what you have, or don't have. If you could honestly describe what would constitute a happy life for you, what would it be?

Do you ever feel like it's just impossible to be